Contracts Closed.

The Board of Control of the Bourbon Branch of the American Society of Equity and the Bourbon Warehouse Company have made contracts with Booth & Judy, at Millersburg, to handle and redry 600,000 pounds of tobacco and with Col. Dan Peed, of Paris, who will utilize his large warehouse, on South Main street, for the handling and redrying of 400,000 pounds.

Other warehouses will be established at Centerville, Hutchison and North Middletown and competent managers in charge.

The selection of the above named gentlemen to redry and handle the Bourbon crop signed to the Society shows that our farmers mean business and that experienced men will handle their crops. They expect to commence receiving on Monday next.

Many Acres Added.

J. B. Haggin, the New York millionaire, Wednesday added about 600 acres to his mammoth Elmendorf stock farm in Fayette county. C. H. Berryman, manager of Elmendorf bought at private sale the H. W. Alexander farm consisting of 120 acres, and located opposite Elmendorf on the Maysville pike. Mr. Berryman also purchased at public auction Wednesday a farm sold by R. R. Early consisting of 479 acres, on the Bryant's Station and Briar Hill turnpikes, six miles from Lexington.

Mr. Haggin now owns the largest tract of land held since colonial times by one man in the Bluegrass region. The Elmendorf estate now comprises about 10,000 acres which have cost Mr. Haggin an average of over $100 an acre. In addition to the cost of the land Mr. Haggin has built a mansion upon the place, and cost of which was about $300,000. He has also made extensive improvements in the tenant houses, stables and other buildings and has spent large sums in constructing roads and fences, most of the Elmendorf farm being enclosed on its boundaries by a magnificent stone wall. Altogether, Mr. Haggin has probably expended nearly $2,000,000 upon the Elmendorf estate.

Taken To Cincinnati.

Always In It.

It is a cold day in the good old summer time that Kentucky is not in everything that's going on one way or another. For instance, it was a Kentucky preacher that married Harry Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit. The mother of Thaw has promised to give $1,500 to the Pikeville Presbyterian School, and now comes the Somerset Journal to say that Stanford White had something to do with the Carnegie library there.

J. Hal Woodford Announces.

In another column of this issue you will find the announcement of Hon. J. Hal Woodford as a candidate for re-election as Representative in the Lower House of the General Assembly, subject to the Democratic primary of May 21. Mr. Woodford is a true blue Democrat and for years has been a working Democrat. He represented his constituents in an able manner, reflecting honor upon them and upon himself, in the last Legislature, and on every occasion was found casting his vote in the interest of the great common people. No safer man could be selected to represent our county. He will no doubt be renominated without opportunity either in the primary or in the general election in November.

Remarkable Family.

The arrival of a pretty little daughter, Edith Lanore, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Shy, makes the fifth link in a chain of five living generations. The oldest in this remarkable family is Mrs. Margaret Hopper, aged eighty-six years and residing near Owensville, Ky. She is the mother of Mrs. Nannie Hopper, of Millersburg, this county, who is sixty-eight years of age, and who in turn is the mother of Mrs. J. D. Shy, of this city, mother of Perry M. Shy, the proud father of little Edith Lanore Shy, who arrived at the Shy homestead Tuesday afternoon.

Ex-Bourbon Dies in Texas.

The Lexington Leader says: "It is with deep regret that the many friends of Horton Moore learned of his death, which occurred last week at El Paso, Texas. Mr. Moore was formerly a student at Kentucky University in the Academic Department, but gave up the course before graduating and entered the law school, from which he graduated in 1895. He was admitted to the Lexington bar the same year, and shortly afterward married Miss Kate Adams, of this city. Miss Adams was a sister of Mrs. Edmund H. Bacon, of Louisville, and won distinction here by graduating with the highest honors of her class at the State College.

"Mr. and Mrs. Moore left here for Albuquerque, New Mexico, in 1896, as Mr. Moore's health was so delicate as to necessitate his removal to a dry climate. He practiced law in New Mexico and subsequently entered the political arena there, serving both as county and Commonwealth's attorney, which capacities he filled with credit and ability.

"Mr. Moore was forced to give up his political career on account of failing health, and moved to El Paso in the hope of finding a more congenial climate. He was a native of Bourbon county, and was exceedingly popular in Lexington."

Horton Moore was a son of the late Garland Moore and Eliza Moore, who now reside at Centerville, this county. He was born in the Flat Rock precinct.

Grand Master Hobbs Issues Proclamation.

A proclamation has just been made by W. C. G. Hobbs, Grand Master of the Kentucky Lodge of Odd Fellows, setting April 26 as a day for prayer, praise and thanksgiving in honor of the eighty-eighth anniversary of the order. The lodge of Odd Fellows, which ranks among the oldest and best of American orders, was originated in Baltimore, Md., eighty-eight years ago. April 26 has been named as a day of commemoration by the Grand Sire, E. S. Conway, of Chicago, and the Grand Masters of all the States will issue proclamations accordingly.

Olney On Japan Issue.

The Japanese contention that they have the right under the treaty between us to the free use of the white public schools of San Francisco for Japanese children, and indeed for older people, is held to be untenable by ex-Secretary of State Olney. The treaty itself, Mr. Olney thinks, excludes such an issue, for it contains an explicit reservation, which gives all our states such rights as California has exercised in the organization of its San Francisco public schools. Said treaty gives the Japanese who come here the same privileges, rights and liberties as citizens of the United States, but there is an exception that undoubtedly covers the question of the right of any state to create separate schools from scholars of different color or nationality.

That exception is contained in the last paragraph of article 2 of said treaty as follows:

"It is, however, understood that the stipulations contained in this and the preceding article do not in any way affect the laws, ordinances and regulations in regard to trade, the immigration of laborers, police and public security, either in force or which may hereafter be enacted in either of the two countries."

Mr. Olney says: "I am unable to see how the meaning and effect of the paragraph just quoted can be misunderstood. It embodies an expressed declaration that the stipulations of article 1 are in no way to affect the laws, ordinances and regulations with regard to police and public security which are in force, or which may hereafter be enacted in either of the two countries."

In other words, the congeries of important powers, known as the police power, is untouched and unimpaired by this treaty.

"What California has chosen to do with reference to the San Francisco public schools raises no question under the treaty with Japan, and is a subject matter with which the national government has no right to concern itself. In short, the entire police power of the country, being reserved by the treaty in favor of either the United States or the several states, and the establishment, maintenance and organization of the public schools of each state, coming under the whole police power of that state exclusively, Japan is wholly without cause of complaint against California by reason of its public school system, and the United States is without legal ground of interference with that system, vi et armis, or otherwise."

If the Japanese are determined to come to the United States, especially the Pacific states, they will have to put up with the local laws they find there, just the same as citizens of the United States residing in Japan have to be satisfied with the laws and customs that Japan has established.

The whole trouble arises from the fact that the Japanese consider themselves superior to the Chinese and their dignity is hurt by their children in San Francisco being obliged to attend the separate schools established for children of Mongolian parents. It's a small matter to quarrel over and as the whole influence of the administration is being used to coerce the municipal authorities of San Francisco, probably some compromise will be effected as a temporary arrangement. But Japan may as well be made to understand first as last that this country is being run for the citizens thereof and not for the benefit of foreigners.

Uncle Sam As Debt Collector.

The British Corporation of Foreign Bondholders have just made their thirty-third report on the collection of debts from defaulting Republics of Latin America and state they are relying on the United States with its big stick to accomplish what their own government has failed to do. It appears that Costa Rica, Guatemala and Honduras are all in default and that "no serious attempt is being made to pay a penny," but the bondholders are relying upon the statement of President Roosevelt that it is the duty of the United States to see that these republics "acted with decency in industrial and political matters and paid their obligations." The report declares, however, that it is somewhat disappointing that nothing, so far as the bondholders are aware, has yet been done by President Roosevelt in the direction indicated.

It might be well for these bondholders to know that there has been brake applied to the application of the "big stick doctrine" and that Congress has so far refused to permit the President to go into the collecting business even in the modified plan proposed for Santo Domingo, through the Republican members of the Senate are now said to be willing to ratify the new Santo Domingo treaty.

Panama Canal.

After a great deal of jockeying for position William J. Oliver, Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn., has filed his revised bid to construct the Panama Canal for $6.75 per cent of the cost of construction. As the government is to furnish the necessary machinery and supplies and pay all the bills, this peculiar contract would seem to be for bossing and supervising the work. If the Canal only costs $200,000,000, and it is quite likely to cost double that amount, the profit to the contractors will be at least $13,500,000. Uncle Sam certainly does things on a huge scale and the patient taxpayer of today may have to hand down the burden to his children before the Canal is completed. As it has taken the Administration, after all its boasting, about three years to decide it was unable to do the work, it is now to be hoped that at last "the dirt will fly," although there still appears to be a hitch in the refusal of Chief Engineer Stevens to continue in charge, if the canal is to be built by contract.

Protection Does Not Protect.

The Macbeth-Evans Glass Company has reduced the wages of its workmen 25 per cent. in order that "competitors of the company would not have such a tremendous advantage over them." The Macbeth Company factories are non-union and equipped with machines which do much of the work formerly done by glass blowers. As the glass industry is protected with enormous tariff rates, it is up to the standpatters to explain how the tariff protects the workmen whose wages have been so greatly decreased when the cost of living is at the highest point—over 50 per cent. higher than it was ten years ago.

The Wise Dr. Wiley.

The wise Dr. Wiley says that an hour after an oyster is opened it is dead and no good to anybody. It is then in a state from which there is no recall, and there is nothing left but decent burial, which it very seldom gets. Therefore, says this wise man, if you must eat oysters see that they are fresh from the water. People who live inland will be seen trooping down to the seashore every morning hereafter, with fishpoles over their shoulders and hook baited for oysters. Dr. Wiley says also that lockjaw bacilli lurk in ice cream, but does Dr. Wiley know that by far the greatest quantity of the world's ice cream is consumed by young women? And did he ever see a young woman who, alive, was afflicted with even the symptoms of lockjaw? The doctor makes premises without proof. Before long he will be telling us that horrible monsters lurk in buckwheat pancakes and that stewed prunes are intoxicating.

Buckling Down To Business.

Congress having wasted the last two months on useless talk mostly on subjects not matter of legislation, will now buckle down to business and rush through the appropriation bills with but slim consideration. There is, however, a method in this madness of the Republican majority of encouraging unnecessary talk, for it allows bills to be sidetracked that might prove troublesome to "the interests" if enacted into law.

Democrats Not Objecting.

Another batch of land grabbers have been unearthed in California, "involving men of wealth, influence and high social standing." This will make another hole in the Republican majority in that state, so no wonder the Democrats approve the course of Secretary Hitchcock.

At Higher Point.

The per capita circulation of money now at the highest point ever reached in this country being $33.96 as compared with $31.88 a year ago and $21.41 in 1906. In 1878 it was but $15.32 and yet the frenzied financiers are demanding more money.

Dose Of His Own Medicine.

The Republicans of Ohio will have to submit to the appointment of one of their colored brethren to a lucrative federal office, for the President is bound to give Senator Foraker a dose of his own medicine and show that in discharging the colored troops he was not prejudiced against darkey officials. Meanwhile the protests from Republicans of Ohio are coming in thick and fast.

The Limit of Life.

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60: the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged: carelessness then being fatal to longevity. Nature's best help after 50 is Electric Bitters, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every organ of the body. Guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist. 50 cents.

Hays, a prominent business man of Bluff, Mo., that Bucklen's Arnica Salve is the quickest and surest healing salve ever applied to a sore, burn or wound, or to a case of piles. ## Love versus Law.

By C. B. LEWIS.

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells.

They came face to face as they turned a bend in the rough and narrow trail leading up the Cumberland mountains to Laurel Cove, and both stopped and stared for half a minute before the young man raised his hat and excused his absentmindedness. The young woman blushed, stammered a reply and passed on, and in a minute the trees and bushes hid them from each other.

The one everybody for five miles around knew as Abe Goodman's daughter Tilda. The other had just appeared in the neighborhood, claiming to be a botanist and a naturalist, and had secured a temporary home at the cabin of Saul Markham. For the last two years Tilda had been down to Nashville, "bein' eddicated," as her father and mother put it, and was now teaching the dozen children of the mountaineers in the log schoolhouse which the young man had passed forty rods before meeting her.

Tilda had come from mountaineer stock. Her father was rough, uncouth and ignorant. Her mother was uneducated and plain. The girl had lived in poverty, surrounded by poverty, and yet she was like none of the rest. Nature had given her a good figure and a handsome face, and the time spent in the city had made what the natives called, a lady of her. The astonishment of the young man, who had given his name as Arthur Griggs, was but natural.

The stranger who goes among the people of the southern mountains is from the outset a suspected man, and the first suspicion which rests on him is that he must be a revenue spy.

Revenue men have raided and destroyed scores of stills in the caves and ravines and sent scores and scores of moonshiners to the penitentiary, but other stills are brought in, and other men take the places of those who have fallen under the ban of the law. It was so thirty years ago; it is so today; it will be so thirty years hence. The mountaineer argues that he is a law unto himself. He argues that he has a right to live. He argues that where he has no market for his corn or corn he has a right to turn it into whisky to make a market. The government does not argue with him. It sends men into the mountains to break up his business and imprison him. The moonshiner works in secret. So does the government. He depends upon the honor of his neighbors not to give him away. The revenue men coax, threaten, bribe and work in every underhand way to get an advantage. The enmity is more bitter than in the personal feuds. When the mountaineer goes down to the towns, he is trailed about, cross questioned, made drunk, if possible, and his wife or his children are offered money to betray him.

When the revenue men send a spy up the mountains to nose out and report on stills, he takes his life in his hands. He may go as a buyer of timber or coal or iron lands, as a traveler, peddler or artist, as a fur buyer, preacher or newspaper man, but the shadow of death walks by his side until he has proved himself all right. In that case he is heard of again down in the lowlands. In the other case he is reported as missing.

A botanist and a naturalist from Harvard was what Griggs claimed to be, and he was taken into the cabin of the mountaineer without question. There was no undue curiosity about him. He was free and free to go. As the neighbors were introduced to him they seemed to accept him as Saul Markham had done. He walked about in contentment and slept in peace. He did not know that he never moved a hundred feet from the cabin floor without being under surveillance; that every action was watched; that men whom he had never seen looked in on him when he slept; that other men gathered together in the laurel thickets and reported on him and discussed him.

Young Griggs shot squirrels and hares and gathered flowers and plants and sought to make friends with all. Among those plain and hospitable people it was an easy matter for him to bring about an acquaintanceship with Tilda. Two days after meeting her on the trail they knew each other. The girl was pleased when she saw admiration in the young man's eyes. She was pleased when he dared to flatter and to compliment. She knew little of the world and its hollowess. If the mountaineer said this or that, he meant it. She had to judge others by this standard.

It was only after the newcomer and Tilda were being talked about as lovers that the watch on Griggs was relaxed. He had set no time for departing, but after a month it was seen that his work was finished and that he was staying on account of the girl. Abe Goodman asked no questions of the young man, and the mother asked none of her daughter. Suspicious and distrustful as the mountaineers were, they had been fooled. The newcomer was a revenue spy, working with the promise of a great reward. He had rehearsed his part for months before playing it. He had counted on everything but meeting Tilda. There had been admiration from the first, and love had soon followed. Within two weeks there had sprung up in his breast a conflict 'twixt love and duty, and it was for this reason he lingered.

He was not what he claimed to be, and yet he was the girl's superior in all ways. It was her ingenuousness and innocence that appealed to him. He had come to betray, and yet he could not do it. He loved, and yet he hesitated to go further. More education and refinement, more contact with the world, and she would be a woman to be proud of, and yet there was her ancestry—the impossible in the environments that had surrounded her for so many years and must have their due effects.

When a man trusts a woman, he has faith. When a woman trusts a man, she has none. She is ready to give her whole life to him. Arthur Griggs knew that he had won the maiden's love, and it was for him to make a choice. Should he return and betray the stills hidden away in Laurel Cove and then disappear and be seen no more, or should he report that none existed and take away a mountain bride and the good will of the lovely people? Love carried the day. It was to the credit of human sentiment that it was so. But before this determination was reached the young man walked alone on the mountains. No one followed him this day. It was Sunday, and the mountaineers were smoking their pipes as they rested. Their suspicions had been lulled. They had kept their eyes open and whispered among themselves—whispered and smiled. On this day, as he walked under the giant chestnuts and made his way through the laurels, young Griggs came upon a man. The revenue force had grown impatient with his dilatory tactics and had sent an emissary to see and question him. The two talked for half an hour as they leaned against the trunk of a great tree at the edge of a thicket. When they separated, the revenue man knew that nothing further could be expected from the spy. He had shut his eyes to all but the song of love. It had been useless to talk to him of duty. He had come as a spy, but had sold the government out.

After the talk Griggs walked away a few rods and sat down on a rock from which he could see far down the side of the grim old mountain. He could count the cabins of the mountaineers scattered about, and he could look down into Beaver Cove and Halfway Cove and Halpin's Hamlet. It was a day of peace, with the smoke ascending as straight as an arrow and the birds singing and the squirrels chattering about him. He felt good. There was a burden off his mind and joy in his heart now that he had made his decision. In the evening he would see Tilda and tell her that he loved her. In the evening he would see her father and ask her hand in marriage. He was smiling as his eyes roved over the landscape beneath him when a step caused him to turn his head.

"Tilda, you here!" he cried as he sprang to his feet with the light of love in his eyes and his arms outstretched.

She drew herself up and waved him away.

"But, Tilda, what is it?" She was pale, and hard lines had come into her face. The girl look was searched for in vain. There was suffering in her eyes, but determination in the compressed lips.

"I was in the thicket when you talked with that man—dad and I," she said at last. "Dad has gone for his rifle to shoot you like a dog. I am here to tell you to go."

"But if you heard us talking you know that I would not agree to what the man wanted."

"You came here as a spy. If you hadn't fallen in love with me you would have betrayed my own father. In love with me! I in love with a revenue spy! Go!"

"But listen, Tilda. If I came here under false pretenses I—"

"We are poor and humble," she interrupted as she drew her skirts away from him. "We are plain and uneducated. We have nothing before us—nothing but this to look forward to. You are learned, and you may be rich. You have the whole world before you, and you know how to be happy, but the meanest, lowest one among our men is a king beside you! Go!"

He paused for ten seconds in hopes to see her face soften, but it was like stone. She motioned again, and he went. In five minutes he was out of sight down the side of the mountain, and rough old Abe Goodman was standing over his weeping daughter and saying to her in sympathetic tones:

"Thar, thar, little one, don't cry. The Lawd made women to bar crosses and to stand trouble, and if you'll just look up to him he'll bring you into smooth waters and send along a feller of a husband wuth forty horses and keridges."

A Little Indefinite.

A prominent New York lawyer says that in his earlier professional days he was glad to expand his slender income by bill collecting. On one occasion he had a bill against a man who incidentally has since achieved a success which puts him beyond the necessity of such an indefinite statement as he made on that occasion. The young lawyer found him with his feet propped upon his desk, while he gazed dreamily at the ceiling through a cloud of tobacco smoke.

"But, really, sir, I must insist that you give me some definite idea as to when you will settle," the lawyer said after having been gently rebuffed.

The author consented to lower his eyes and to wave his pipe languidly. "Why, certainly, sir, though there seems to me to be a rather unnecessary commotion about this trifling," he drawled. "I will pay the bill as soon as I think of it after receiving the money which a publisher will pay me in case he accepts the novel which I will write and send him just as soon as I feel in an energetic mood after a really good idea for a plot has occurred to me."—Harper's Weekly.

Echo Verses.

Echo verses were sometimes used effectively for epigrams and squibs. Thus a critic once wrote:

I'd fain praise your poem. But, tell me, how is it?

When I cry out "exquisite" echo cries "quizzical."

And when in 1831 Paganini was drawing crowds to the opera house at extravagant prices the Times printed the following lines:

What are they who pay three guineas To hear a tune of Paganini's?

Echo—Pack of ninnies!

—London Graphic.

Youthful Misinformation.

Among the answers to questions at a recent school examination were the following interesting examples of youthful misinformation: "Gross ignorance is 144 times as bad as just ordinary ignorance." "Anchorite, an old fashioned hermit sort of a fellow who has anchored himself to one place." "The liver is an infernal organ." "Vacuum is nothing with the air sucked out of it put up in a pickle bottle. It is very hard to get."

Only Two in Office.

A man in a certain township was elected constable. The members of the family were much elated and could scarcely contain themselves with their newly acquired civic honors. At last one of the smaller children said to the wife, "Ma, are we all constables?" The mother replied: "Gwan, child! Nobody's constable but me and your pa!"—Acheson Globe.

The Real Cause.

Tommy—What was your bawlin' about last night?

Willie—W'y, when paw and me got some 'from fishin' maw didn't have supper ready, and I whimpered about it, and paw licked me.

"And he licked you jist fer whimperin'?"

"Naw; because supper wasn't ready."

INDIGESTION'S RECORD

"The best remedy I can prescribe for your indigestion, madam, is Green's August Flower. I know of several other physicians who prescribe it regularly."

Indigestion is making an awful record as a cause of sudden deaths. It is beating heart-failure in its ghastly harvest.

You read in the papers daily of apparently healthy and even robust men being suddenly attacked with acute indigestion after enjoying a hearty meal, and of their dying in many cases before a physician could be called in.

This should be a warning to you who suffer with regular or periodical attacks of indigestion. If these unfortunate victims of acute indigestion had taken a small dose of Green's August Flower before or after their meals they would not have fallen a prey to such sudden seizures. August Flower prevents indigestion by creating good digestion. It also regulates the liver, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system in a natural way.

Habit-forming Medicines.

Whatever may be the fact as to many of the so-called patent medicines containing injurious ingredients as broadly published in some journals of more or less influence, this publicity has certainly been of great benefit in arousing needed attention to this subject. It has, in a considerable measure, resulted in the most intelligent people avoiding such foods and medicines as may be fairly suspected of containing the injurious ingredients complained of. Recognizing this fact some time ago, Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., took time by the forelock, as it were, and published broadcast all the ingredients of which his popular medicines are composed. Thus he has completely forestalled all harping critics and all opposition that might otherwise be urged against his medicines, because they are now of known composition. Furthermore, from the formula printed on every bottle wrapper, it will be seen that these medicines contain no alcohol or other habit-forming drugs. Neither do they contain any narcotics or injurious agents, their ingredients being purely vegetable, extracted from the roots of medicinal plants found growing in the depths of our American forests and of well recognized curative virtues.

Instead of alcohol, which even in small portions long continued, as in obstinate cases of diseases, becomes highly objectionable from its tendency to produce a craving for stimulants, Dr. Pierce employs chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine, which of itself is a valuable remedy in many cases of chronic diseases, being a superior demulcent, antiseptic, antiferment, and supporting nutritive. It enhances the curative action of the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark and Bloodroot, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery," in all bronchial, throat and lung affections attended with severe coughs. As will be seen from the writings of the eminent Drs. Grover, Coe, of New York; Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Scudder, of Cincinnati; Ellingwood, of Chicago; Hale, of Chicago, and others, who stand as leaders in their several schools of practice, the foregoing agents are the very best ingredients that Dr. Pierce could have chosen to make up his famous "Discovery" for the cure of not only bronchial, throat and lung affections, but also of chronic catarrh in all its various forms wherever located.

Court Of Appeals Decides Like Case.

A case in many respects similar to the much discussed Shaw case was acted upon by the Kentucky Court of Appeals, the Court reversing the life sentence of a Taylor county man, who had slain the debaucher of his home.

The case was that of James A. Shipp, who shot to death Joe A. Smith, of Campbellsburg, without warning upon the streets of that city. On Saturday Mrs. Shipp, so her husband declares, confessed to her relations with Smith. On Monday the husband rented a pistol and walking up to Smith on the street, said, "You ruined my home," and without waiting for a reply shot Smith to death. He then gave himself up to the authorities.

A plea of insanity was the defense made. From the time Shipp first began to suspect his wife, some two months before, it was claimed that his mind had bordered on derangement and when she made the confession to him, the flood gates broke loose, and the overwhelming passion to slay the despoiler of his home overmastered all other emotions.

The opinion of the Court of Appeals is a rather interesting one, as it adheres to and again announces an important rule as to the admission of evidence in such cases, and delivers a new ruling as to the rejection of the evidence.

The ruling of the Court announced heretofore, and which is adhered to, is that it is competent to give to the jury the husband's testimony as to the confession which he heard, and the new ruling announced is that it is incompetent to present to the jury evidence of the wife's standing before and after the homicide as rebutting the idea that she could have made such a confession to her husband.

Other errors such as failure to grant a change of venue to the defendant when he requested it and filed supporting affidavits, and errors in instructions, are pointed out by the Court, but a new trial for Shipp is ordered because of the admission and rejection of testimony as pointed out above.

Judge Nunn wrote the opinion and in reversing the judgment of the Lower Court, the Court said in part: "Appellant's counsel contend that the court erred in refusing to allow him to testify that his wife confessed to him in the presence of his son on Saturday before the Monday on which he shot Smith. It was error of the Court to exclude this testimony, for it tended to show the motive and state of mind of the appellant at the time of the killing. The testimony of the wife's good character was incompetent and the Court should not have permitted it to be introduced, as her reputation was not in issue. The competency of the confession is based on the fact that the confession was the cause, or one of the causes, which induced the accused to act. Its truth or falsity had nothing to do with his conduct."

The Best Of Backs Are Bad When They Ache, And Paris People Know It.

A bad back is always bad. Bad at night when bedtime comes, just as bad in the morning. Ever try Doan's Kidney Pills for it? Know they cure backache—cure every kidney ill?

If you don't some Paris people do. Read a case of it:

Mrs. J. T. Martin, living on Pleasant street, Paris, Ky., says: "I was seriously injured a few years ago as the result of a fall. Across the small of my back was rendered very weak and lame and my kidneys became affected. The pain I suffered through my kidneys were most distressing and alarming. I doctored with many different kidney medicines but did not receive any marked benefit until using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at J. A. Wilson's drug store. They have been of great benefit to me, and my general condition is greatly improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly an excellent kidney remedy."

Quiet And Pretty Wedding.

Chas. Bascom Lair, formerly of Hutchison, this county, and Miss Helen Martin, of Loveland, near Cincinnati, were the contracting parties to a very pretty and quiet wedding in the parlors of the Hotel Windsor, in this city, last evening, at 6:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. E. H. Rutherford performed the ceremony in his usual impressive manner.

Death Of Mrs. C. J. Lancaster.

Mrs. Alice Lancaster, wife of C. J. Lancaster, died at her home on Seventh street, yesterday morning at 6:30 o'clock, after several weeks' illness of abscess on the liver. She was thought to be much improved after having spent a comfortable night and Mr. Lancaster had left home to attend his duties as janitor of the court house, when a sudden change for the worse came. He was called by telephone and arrived at home a few moments before his devoted wife passed away.

Mrs. Lancaster was 54 years of age, a most estimable Christian woman, a devoted wife, loving and affectionate mother, true friend and kind neighbor. She was a daughter of Wm. Payne, of near Millersburg, and a sister of Frank Payne, of Clay City, Ky., Mrs. Bettie Gibson, of Lexington, and Messrs. Jesse and Henry Payne, of the county.

She is survived by her husband and four children—three sons and one daughter—Howard, Prentice and Ullman Lancaster, and Mrs. Nettie Burton, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. P. Strother.

Three Damage Suits Filed.

Miss Ida Arkle, through her attorney, the Hon. C. J. Bronston, of Lexington, on yesterday, filed suit against the Bluegrass Traction Company for $5,000 damages. She alleges in substance that while driving in a buggy on a public highway in Bourbon county the defendant's employees in charge of an interurban car, willfully, negligently and grossly, caused said car to strike her buggy with great force and violently throwing her upon the highway and upon the interurban tracks, thereby bruising her face and knee, and otherwise subjecting her to great personal injury, etc., which injuries she believes to be permanent. She asks for $5,000 damages.

The same attorneys filed suit for Geo. Crowsdale, a brother-in-law of Miss Arkle, who was with her at the time of the accident, for $10,000 damages against same company. His petition contains about the same allegations, except he alleges that he was made deaf from the accident which in all probability will be permanent.

W. P. Hume also filed suit against same company for $100 damages to his buggy. Mr. Crowsdale and Miss Arkle were out driving in Mr. Hume's buggy when the above accident happened, and the buggy was badly mashed up.

Paris A Bad Show Town.

It does seem as if the theatre-going people of Paris do not care to see the better class of attractions, but are more partial to second-rate shows. Last week "Buster Brown," a conglomeration of nothing, with its special features a man impersonating a dog and a midget impersonating a boy, drew a $500 house. On Tuesday night "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," by far the best attraction that has visited Paris this season, was witnessed by a small audience, the total aggregating less than $200. Wednesday night "Under Southern Skies," a beautiful play, and finely presented, drew less than $150.

There is no other excuse for this other than the people do not want that class of shows. "Under Southern Skies" had appeared here previously, and the people were well aware it was a first class attraction. In Tuesday's issue the News told its readers they had an opportunity to see a really fine production of a clean good comedy.

From a financial standpoint the management of the Grand would do well in the future to book only the cheaper line of attraction. One of the greatest hardships ever inflicted upon the people of Paris was when the State Legislature prohibited the appearance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," [but then there is a silver lining behind the dark cloud.

Peck's "Bad Boy," "Two Merry Tramps," "The Dice of Death," and numerous others of their kind are still on the road, and our theatre-going people can still have something pleasant to look forward to.

Government Selects Hinton Site For Federal Building.

The Government authorities at Washington have selected the J. T. Hinton lot on the corner of Main and Eighth streets, for the site of the new Federal Building in this city.

The site takes in the old Christian church lot and the adjoining lot of Mr. Martin Doyle, making a frontage of 116 feet on Main, running back 130 feet on Eighth. The price paid was $5,900. Mr. Hinton getting all the old material in the church building. It also leaves Mr. Hinton 84 feet fronting on High street in the rear of the lot sold.

After all, the selection seems to give general satisfaction, many thinking the building should be on Main street. A recent general survey of the city when the free delivery system was installed here, placed Rassenfoss' corner, at Main and Seventh streets, as the center of the city, and the site selected is just one square from this point.

There is only $20,000 of the appropriation of $40,000 now available for this building, and another appropriation will have to be made by Congress before the building can be completed. It behooves our citizens to take some steps in securing this additional appropriation, if Winchester gets an appropriation of ten or fifteen thousand dollars more than Paris for a building, merely through the active methods of the Winchester Commercial Club, why cannot the citizens of Paris wake up and get at least as much as our neighboring city. Bourbon County pays more money into the Internal Revenue Department of our government in one month than has ever been paid in by Clark county almost since it has been a county. There is no reason except inactivity on our part, that the appropriation for the Paris building should not be increased to at least $60,000 or more.

They usually want something from the pantry

You remember the hunger you had—Home cooking counts for much in the child's health; do not imperil it with alum food by the use of poor baking powder.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Royal makes a difference in your home—a difference in your health—a difference in your cooking.

ROYAL is absolutely Pure.

Prey of the Sparrow Hawk.
The sparrow hawk almost invariably catches a flying bird for its meal, even striking down birds as large as the wood pigeon, though usually going no higher than a blackbird. If it does not exactly swoop like the larger hawks, yet it must have conditions of chase of its own choosing. That is why the small birds usually mob it with impunity when they are numerous enough to bewilder it. Once, however, I saw a sparrow hawk that had been molested for some minutes by a perfect cloud of green finches dart among them and secure a victim. One day I had one of these birds pointed out as the one which a few days earlier had come close to the house toward dusk and caught a bat on the wing. That, however, is a very unusual meal.—London News.

The Good Little Cent.
A popular clergyman had just closed a successful religious campaign. A great many pennies had been put in the offering, and his attention was called to this. One night he held up a silver dollar and a copper penny and gave a conversation held by the two coins. "You poor little red cent, you; you don't amount to anything. I'd hate to be you," said the big dollar. "I know I'm not very big," replied the cent, "but the children like me, and I can buy a good many things." "Hub, you can't buy anything at all!" said the dollar. "Just look at me, big and bright and shiny. I can buy a whole lot more than you can." "Maybe so," said the little red cent meekly, "but I go to church a heap oftener than you do anyway."

Calhoun and Randolph.
When John C. Calhoun became vice president of the United States and consequently president of the senate he announced that he had not the authority to call the senators to order for words spoken in debate, as he regarded each senator as an ambassador from a sovereign state. The eccentric John Randolph of Virginia took advantage of Mr. Calhoun's ruling to abuse him personally. One day he began a tirade by saying, "Mr. Speaker—I mean Mr. President of the Senate and Would Be President of the United States, which God in his infinite mercy avert!"

What to Name Your Dog.
There are certain English names for dogs that have meanings that might be given when appropriate. Alan means a hound; Ashur, black; Blanco, white; Crispin, curly; Duncan, brown; Julius, soft haired; Leonard, lionlike; Linus, flaxen haired; Rufus, red; Vivian, lively; Clara, bright; Constance, loyal; Joyce, sportive. Such names as Send, Rover, Dart and Patter are suggestive in themselves. Two classic names suitable for dogs are Bitch and Lixus.

Reciprocity.
"No," snapped the sharp faced woman at the door, "I ain't got no food fur you, an' I ain't got no old clothes. Now git!"
"Lady," replied Harvard Hasben, "I could repay you well. Give me a square meal and I'll give you a few lessons in grammar." — Philadelphia Press.

Wouldn't Dance Upside Down.
A young lady rushed into a drug store and asked for some floor wax. The clerk told her they had no floor wax, but had some sealing wax. She replied, "We are going to give a dance and want to wax the floor, not the ceiling." — Baltimore Sun.

The undertaker never would get some people if they could live until they acquired wisdom. — Brownsville (Tex.) Herald.

M'CREADY AFTER FAIRBANKS. Senator Wanted Fine Imposed On Tardy Official—Other News From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—There is something about the Senate atmosphere that makes for peace. When the credentials of Robert L. Taylor, "Fiddling Bob," as Senator-elect from Tennessee, were presented this week, the sponsor for the new member was Senator Carmack, the man whom "Fiddling Bob" defeated. Taylor and Carmack had a red-hot fight last fall, during which bitter personalities were indulged in, and it as hardly expected that the Senator would unbend sufficiently or overlook past bitterness enough to permit him to present his successor's papers. However, he surprised his friends. A similar surprise was afforded the Senate only a short time ago when Senator Spooner stood as sponsor for his colleague, Senator LaFollette, who when he as governor declared that his one aim and ambition in life was to get the political scalp of Senator Spooner.

Senator McCreary, of Kentucky, this week made an effort to put the tall and austere Vice-President Fairbanks "in a hole" by fining the president of the Senate for being late for the first time since he has presided over the chamber. Mr. McCreary moved that the fine be imposed, but some of his wary colleagues dissuaded him from pressing the matter, pointing out that Mr. Fairbanks in retaliation could compel all Senators to be present for the opening prayer. At the present time, not more than a dozen Senators are in their seats when the chaplain's invocation opens the session. While they were arguing it, Mr. Fairbanks slipped into his seat, just two minutes late.

The Senate Committee is now sitting up o' nights with the River and Harbors appropriation bill, which was passed unanimously by the House after a debate that lasted ten days. It is altogether probable that the bill will be reported out practically in the same condition in which it was received from the House. Senator Dick, of Ohio, is organizing a combination with a view to forcing appropriations for more Ohio River locks and dams. He is receiving support on the part of Senators from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky, but the indications are that the Committee will not make any further provision on the theory that Chairman Burton's appropriations were intelligently and justly made. The greatest good feeling marks the consideration of the bill in the Senate Committee, for the Senators realize that the country is aroused to the necessity for careful and unbiased distribution of government moneys for this work. The measure is not now regarded as a "pork" bill, but as one that is of vital importance to the commerce of the entire country. It is not likely that the bill, as it will come from the Senate, will provide an increase over the amount appropriated by the House, thus making the bill come closer to meeting the demands of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress that $50,000,000 be devoted to the work of waterways development.

An example of the confusion that results from the enactment by States of laws that conflict with federal legislation governing interstate commerce is seen this week in a telegram received by the Interstate Commerce Commission from the Great Northern Railroad Company. The railroad company complied with the law in regard, but now finds that it is being ground between the upper millstone of federal legislation and the nether millstone of State law. The company's telegram was as follows: "Bills now pending in the legislatures of various States thro' which the Great Northern operates propose to establish maximum passenger rates of two cents, in which event this company will not wish to continue the low rates provided in tariffs now on file with the Commission." This condition of affairs is a source of much uneasiness to the Administration. The effects of this clash of laws on all forms of business is bound to be deleterious. Efforts are being made to convince the American people that the control of corporations can far better be exercised by a comprehensive federal law than by individual and necessarily conflicting laws by dozens of States. The corporation as a business institution now does not confine its activities to any one section of the Union, but traffic is so intricate and covers such a wide territory that divergent laws framed to govern it must result in checking its flow and in other ways retarding the free exchange of commodities.

File Protest With President.
At a mass meeting of Japanese held in Honolulu Tuesday night the following cablegram was ordered sent to President Roosevelt: "The Hawaiian Japanese respectfully protest, in the name of humanity and civilization, also in the name of liberty, against the prohibition of their immigration to the United States. It enslaves us permanently to Hawaiian capitalists."
The meeting also cabled to the Japanese Foreign Office as follows: "The Hawaiian Japanese are unanimous in firm opposition to the action of the American Congress in prohibiting them from immigrating to America, which is incompatible with the Empire's dignity and ruinous to Japanese interests in Hawaii. Energetic opposition is requested."

Preparing for War.
A drummer arriving at Lexington the other night says that more than one hundred Winchester rifles have been shipped into Breathitt county during the past few days, going from Cincinnati over the C. & O. road to Beaver, on the Big Sandy division, from which place they were taken across the country.
It is the belief of many that trouble is expected at Jackson at the approaching trial of James Hargis for the murder of Dr. B. D. Cox, and that the firearms are intended for use then.

Good News to Women.
Father William's Indian Tea, Nature's Remedy, is becoming the most popular Female Remedy in use.
Pale, Weak, Nervous, Delicate Women suffering from those weaknesses and diseases, peculiar to their sex, will find in Father William's Indian Tea a wonderful Tonic and Regulator. It quiets the Nerves, puts on flesh, gives strength and elasticity to the step, brightens the eyes, clears the complexion and makes you well and strong again. Tea or Tablets, 29 cents. For sale by W. T. Brooks.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, proved that it was constitutional. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tea spoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Paragraphs With Points.
An astronomer claims that he can tell us the weight of the stars. We have seen some in musical comedy that we consider light-weights all right.
A San Jose, Cal., man placed six sticks of dynamite in the oven to thaw and then went to bed. Another thaw trial in which a plea of insanity would hold good.
Albert Holden, the alleged Ohio minister with 13 wives, is certainly in luck to be sent to the penitentiary for six years just before the Easter bonnet season opens.
A news item says a Pullman porter found a loaded bomb in a lower berth of his car. A misprint, no doubt. A loaded bomb is probably what caused all the excitement.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about that case of the New York man who was found to have been afflicted with 15 different diseases is the fact that appendicitis was not one of them.

Some Notes on "Origins."
"Humpty Dumpty Sat on a Wall," etc., has come down to us from the days of King John. "The Babes in the Wood" dates from the fifteenth century, being founded upon facts, an old house near Wayland Wood, Norfolk, having the whole story in carvings on a mantelpiece. "Little Jack Horner," "Little Miss Muffett," "Old Mother Hubbard," "Mother Goose" and "Goosey, Goosey Gander," are each traceable to the sixteenth century. "Pussy Cat, Pussy Cat, Where Have You Been?" belongs to the reign of Queen Elizabeth. "Three Blind Mice" first appeared in a music book dated 1609. "A Froggie Would a-Wooing Go" was licensed to be sung as far back as 1650. "Boys and Girls Come Out to Play" and "Lucy Lock Lost Her Pocket" both hail from the period of Charles II. And last of all, "Cinderella," "Jack the Giant Killer," "Bluebeard" and "Tom Thumb" were published by their author, Charles Perrault, in the year 1697.—London Notes and Queries.

Plain Words.
Freeman, the historian, it was said, was apt to grow irritable over matters of intellectual difference. One day he was at the Macmillans' when the conversation turned upon the subject of Ireland. Mr. Macmillan said that, for his part, he was in favor of granting autonomy.

Whereupon Freeman began to growl at the use of a Greek word.

"Why can't you speak English," demanded he, "and say home rule instead of speaking Greek, which you don't know?"

One of the guests flushed with anger and ventured to reprove Freeman, calling his attention to the respect due their host and at the same time paying tribute to Mr. Macmillan's remarkable abilities. But, although Freeman did not apologize in so many words, he smoothed the matter over by a humorous repetition of his criticism. Later some one mentioned gout. "There you go again!" exclaimed Freeman. "Why can't we call it toe woe?"

HIDDEN TREASURE.

New Zealanders Dig For Kauri Gum In the Ground.

Many New Zealanders find it profitable to dig for hidden treasure. That for which they dig, however, is not gold or Captain Kidd's ill gotten wealth, though it has a dull yellow color. It is kauri gum, a resinous substance which is the product of the kauri pine tree. The gum can be secured from the trunks of trees while they are alive, for it protrudes in lumps, but it is especially profitable to dig for it in the soil about the stumps remaining after the trees have been cut down. Sometimes chunks weighing as much as 100 pounds are taken up from the ground.

Digging for kauri gum is profitable, for the gum is used in the manufacture of varnish, and apparently it is one of those products of nature whose place cannot be filled by anything else which has yet been discovered. It has been found that it can be used in certain enamel paints, and this has had the effect of bringing the demand up to a point above the supply.

The kauri pine is a magnificent tree. It rises as straight as a needle to a height of from 150 to 200 feet and attains at times a diameter of fifteen feet. It is noted for its dark, dense foliage and is much used for masts for vessels constructed for the British navy.

How Dolls Are Made.

Many big things are needed to make a small doll. She has her beginning in a great trough, where workmen knead up into a dingy paste old cardboard, even old gloves, old rags and gum tragacanth. They are great brawny fellows, these men, naked to the waist, wearing leathern aprons. In an adjoining room the paste is poured into molds for the busts, the arms, the legs of dolls innumerable. There is a special machine for stamping out the hands. I should not like to confess how long I stood in front of it, fascinated by the steady stream of queer little hands that fell ceaselessly from the iron monster. It was awful, uncanny, hypnotizing. Indeed, the whole sight was grim and monstrous. The low factory rooms were misty with steam and lit by strange, red glowing fires. Always the great steel machines pulsed and changed, and through the mist sweaty giants of men went to and fro with heaps of little greenish arms and legs until you began to think that some new Herod had killed all the little people in the world.—Everybody's.

Napoleon Trusted His Omens.

Napoleon always had an unlimited trust in his presentiments. When the news came to him that one of the Nile river boats, the name of which was L'Italie, had been wrecked and the crew put to death he gave up all hope of ever completing his conquest of Italy by annexation. Napoleon believed that the stars exercised an occult influence over human destinies. When General Rapp, at one time his aid-de-camp, returned from the siege of Dantzig he found the emperor gazing with concentrated attention at the heavens. "Look there!" shouted the emperor. "It is my star! The fiery red one, almost as large as the moon! It is before you now, and, ah, how brilliant! It has never abandoned me for a single instant. I see it on all great occasions. It commands me to go forward; it is my sign of good fortune, and where it leads I will follow."

The Old Calfskin Shoe Lace.

The modern boot lace is anything but a luxury. It is nearly always just too long or a little too short, and, although made flat, it soon becomes curled with a little wear. In the old days laces were made of calfskin, and nearly every farmer was an expert. He would cut a disk of leather three or four inches in diameter, stick the point of a sharp knife blade in a board, place the thumb nail the thickness of a match from it and quickly draw the string through the opening, the perimeter being reduced the thickness of a match at every measure of the circumference. Then the square string was rolled between the sole of the shoe and the floor till perfectly round, after which it was greased with tallow. Such a lace would last for months. Round laces are now made of fiber, but their shine soon wears off, giving them a much worn appearance.

How to Enjoy Whist.

"How can one learn to enjoy the game of whist?"—Aspirant. Get yourself roped into a game as partner to some one who helped Hoyle write his book. The other two players must also be experts. Start in pleasantly to enliven the game with a few well chosen anecdotes, now and then making the wrong play. After your partner has slapped your ears and sworn at you and put the black curse on you and all your ancestry and called you a fool a few times you will awake to the real joy of the gentle and intellectual game. We have tried this several times, but not at frequent intervals, and we can guarantee its efficacy. —Chicago News.

Rossini's Watch.

In 1824 Charles X. presented Rossini, the composer, with a repeating watch, studded with diamonds, and playing two of Rossini's melodies. Nobody in Bologna could clean the watch, so it was sent in the care of the tenor, Fabiano, to Paris, where it was destroyed in a fire. Plivee, the watchmaker, thereupon made a second watch, the exact counterpart of the first, except that the diamonds were false, and Rossini, who never discovered this pious fraud, wore the trinket all his life. On his death it passed to a relative, whose son sold it to an Englishman. It is said to contain an excellent portrait in enamel of Rossini as he was in 1824.

English and French Husbands.

When an English wife has hysterics her husband is immediately bored and goes to his club or else he says: "You are not very well, my dear. Shall I send for a doctor?" The Frenchman, au contraire, has hysterics too. The Frenchman may fight with his wife, love her, hate her, kiss her or kill her, but indifferent to her, superior to her, never!—Pol de Leon in London World.

The Truth of It.

Teacher—Johnny, can you define for us the difference between "caution" and "cowardice?" Johnny—Yessum. When you're scared to go out on a boat and stay home for fear it'll sink and the boat comes in all right, it's "cowardice." Teacher—Well? Johnny—And if you're scared and stay home and the boat does sink, then it's "caution."

Under judgment granted by Judge Watts Parker Wednesday in the Fayette Circuit Court, the present Mayor and all future Mayors of Lexington are forever enjoined against the closing of livery stables in Lexington on Sunday. The judgment was rendered under a restraining order filed two years ago by the livery stable men, when the wave of reform swept over the city and the Mayor ordered the lid down tight on every business conducted in the city. Judge Parker was aroused at midnight on that occasion to grant a temporary injunction, and in order to clear the docket Wednesday heard final arguments and made the injunction permanent.
